

Bryan Schwartz

Partner

Mr. Schwartz collaborates with clients to maximize the protection of their patents, copyrights, trademarks, know-how, trade secrets, and other intellectual property rights while conducting business nationally and internationally.

Mr. Schwartz regularly represents parties in federal litigation and appeals, and before the U.S. International Trade Commission and the U.S. Customs Service under Section 337 of the Tariff Act (unfair imports). He has participated in numerous Section 337 investigations involving technologies ranging from semiconductor design to pool cues. He also represents parties in trademark litigation proceedings at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office.
